Featuring on June 7th...

Chris Taggart has been playing music since the age of 8 and picked up the guitar at 13. He attended University of Toronto and earned his Bachelor of Music with a specialization in Jazz Performance. Since then he has been working in the music industry with the Nicole Scott Band, Garden Bros. Circus, Buckafuffalo as well as several other bands. He also writes and performs his own music, drawing his inspiration from many genres and artists.

Chris has been an integral part of the arts scene in and around the Alliston area. While nurturing and mentoring great young talent in his teaching position at Modern Music, he also finds the time to support many worthwhile causes with his music. Songwriters Showcase is pleased to welcome Chris back for his second appearance on our stage.

Ed Roman has been on the scene since 1987 and has been heavily involved in the music scene in and around the Toronto area for some time. He has 19 national and international album credits to his name ranging from Jazz, Pop, African, Latin, Environmental, and Blue Grass. He is also an accomplished writer and performer in his own right with his band Special Ed and The Musically Challenged. He now lives in Shelburne Ontario and runs his own recording and teaching studio Black Earth and performs with the Canadian Jazz Folk Phunk duo sensation Buck-A-Fuffalo. He brings his incredible musicianship to whatever musical genre he finds himself in.

Ed's Music is available at Itunes under Special Ed and The Musically Challenged

Community Spotlight

Jill Jones comes from Newfoundland and is now happy to call Beeton her home. She's been singing her whole life, although usually just for fun and personal enjoyment. Her background is in the theatrical arts but she's recently discovered Bluegrass and decided it was time to pick up the guitar.

More or less on a dare she decided to try her hand at song writing and discovered it was an "Innocent Distraction" that feeds her soul. She's honoured to be included in a performance with real song writers and hopes to live up to the challenge.
